

Jobpartners Launches Monthly Seminar Programme to Help HR Professionals Address Key Industry Issues

London, UK, March 23rd 2006 – Jobpartners, the European leader of software solutions dedicated to the PRM (People Relationship Management) market, today announced a new series of monthly seminars aimed at helping organisations carry out effective people relationship management. Each month the ‘Thursdays of PRM’ will address issues pertinent to HR professionals such as recruitment, internal mobility, appraisals, career management, benefits and personal development plans and provide advice on how these processes can be carried out quickly and successfully on a global scale.

The Thursdays of PRM will also provide attendees with informative examples of how leading organisations such as Boots, Carphone Warehouse, Nike, Superdrug, StateStreet Bank and Xerox have worked with Jobpartners to develop, implement and evolve effective people management strategies and ensure better attraction, development and retention of employees. In addition, Jobpartners will provide demonstrations of its solutions, which have been designed to increase the efficiency of HR.

“We wanted to share our experience and knowledge of PRM issues with HR professionals, and show how technology can effectively and efficiently support all human capital management processes beyond just recruitment,” commented Richard Doherty, VP UK Operations. “The Thursdays of PRM are a great opportunity to learn more about our offerings and to find out more about our work with our customers.”

Held over breakfast, these interactive seminars will take place at Jobpartners’ headquarters in Hammersmith from 8:30 am to 10:30 am as follows:
